

ABSTRACT

The present disclosure provides a decorative stain and/or coating composition which can be applied, using conventional, low-cost techniques to concrete, masonry or like material surfaces in order to provide an desired aesthetic appearance to such surfaces. The methods of use taught herein do not require expensive and laborious pre-treatment, such as cleaning and restoration, as well as handling/disposal concerns typically associated with acid-utilizing stains and decorative coatings and sealers.